Healthy Competition?

In conversations with people about the working world it is clear that in a number of areas it is highly competitive. Many people are working long hours, often on contracts and the working environment is made more uncertain by the prospects of management changes or takeovers. In the University, I used to work in, it was not uncommon for a reorganisation and the removal of posts that resulted in two or three colleagues being asked to apply for one job. The pressure on people to show that they are indispensable and to work ever longer hours is great and as a consequence it is not uncommon to leave early in the morning and get home late. This in a way is perhaps simply the way of the world. Young people are encouraged to gain skills and experiences that will enable them to be competitive in the workplace, the importance on league tables has resulted in comparisons between local schools or hospitals as to which is performing at the highest level.

What got me thinking about this is the contrast between the messages that you are more likely to hear in a church on Sunday. Here it is more likely to be a focus on loving your neighbour and bearing each other's burdens. Rather than competing with each other the emphasis is on mutual support and encouragement. However, this might seem a complete discontinuity between what in practice is the reality of life in the working world. If the life of faith is to take hold of our hearts and imaginations then it has to correspond to what we might hear and experience on a Sunday to what we are likely to face from Monday to Friday and for some even the weekends. Otherwise, faith is going to appear as naive or unrealistic.

As a first point, faith is not something that is there for one day of the week, but rather should shape everything that we do. The culture of the working world that has developed over the last few decades is not going to change overnight and people have to live with integrity in whatever working environment they are in. Perhaps there are a few ways of approaching this issue. The Christian faith makes the claim that men and women have a value not on the basis of their economic worth, but rather as something that is simply given. We are valuable as God loves us. People are not means to an end; they are not disposable and in the workplace should not be treated as such. There is nothing radical in this and business strategies have recognised that people work better if their contribution is valued and they do not feel anonymous. How we treat people matters.

We are very close to Lent and the time to give something up or do something positive. There might not be much we can do about working hours and demands but we can shape how we respond to the people we meet and work with. As everyone will most likely be carrying their own stresses and burdens, a good Lent discipline is to consider how in the daily routine we can support and encourage. The Lent challenge is to do this not only with those we get on with but also with those who might be annoying.

Lent is only for six weeks and maybe it will make a difference.

This Month in .....

On the night of 18th February 1854 two men broke into St Mary's church via the vestry window. Once inside they broke open the safe and removed the silver communion plate and various other articles, including the altar cloth. One of the burglars, 23-year-old James Mallard, lived in the High Street. The other was a boatman and hardened criminal called John Smith, better known as "Navy Jack". The two men bundled up their loot in a bag and made their escape down the towpath of the Grand Junction Canal in the direction of London. Early the following morning, near Croxley Green they, gained a lift in a passing barge.

The robbery was discovered the following morning by the Verger, James Randall, and the police were informed. Meanwhile the boatman who had given the robbers a lift had spotted the stolen items in their bag and once they had left his barge he reported them to the police.

Mallard and Smith were arrested the following Monday and were sent before the Magistrates in Berkhamsted. Their case was referred to Hertford Assizes, where both defendants were convicted of "breaking and entering a church and sacrilegiously stealing therein" and sentenced to 5 years' imprisonment. Mallard was transported to Bermuda to serve his sentence, whilst Smith was sent to a London gaol. Five years later Mallard returned to Northchurch and worked as a general dealer and later got married in the village. "Navy Jack" returned to the Midlands where he continued his life of crime, serving several more prison sentences before he disappeared in the 1870s.

Roll up, Roll up for the Spring Plant Fair Extravaganza!

Come along and support the Ashridge Estate! How?... By buying top quality plants at the Ashridge Spring Plant Fair on 15th May 2016. The volunteers at the Friends of Ashridge run a Plant Fair on behalf of the National Trust at Ashridge taking place on the Green at the foot of the Bridgewater monument. This will be our 20th consecutive Spring Plant Fair - the idea for the first plant fair was formed in 1997 by the then Chairman, Trevor Marwood. The Fair has since grown from strength to strength, in reach and revenue, and we now regularly raise circa £7000 each year to help the National Trust maintain the Ashridge Estate. This is a very important event for the Friends of Ashridge and forms the basis of our financial support to the National Trust at the Estate, so please be generous! There is free parking and no entry fee. There is also a tea room available and the National Trust shop to visit. Please come and browse amongst the thousands of plants that will be on display and the plant stock available from small visiting nurseries on a commercial basis. These nurseries kindly donate a percentage of their earnings to the National Trust Plant Fair.

The majority of our plants are from volunteer growers and private gardens. If you have any plants to donate to the Fair then we would love to hear from you. We are especially interested in vegetable plants, border plants and perennials, roses, climbers and herbs. The estate perimeter straddles three counties so plant enthusiasts come from far and wide to purchase the high quality plants on offer. To donate any plants, please contact the organiser, John Cartwright on 01442 864 984. The Plant Fair is on Sunday 15 May 2016, 11am till 4pm at the National Trust Ashridge Visitor Centre, Monument Drive, Ringshall HP4 1LX. We look forward to seeing you.

The Temple

Edgar Wille

The temple was the focus of Jewish faith and worship. Priests offered sacrifices in the temple area and once a year the high priest entered the most sacred area of what originally was an elaborate tent. People went to the temple because it was 'the done thing', for social rather than spiritual purposes. Jeremiah the prophet criticised people who considered the temple as 'the be all and end all' of their worship of God, showing much outward respect but little inner love.

Jesus and apostles like Peter and Paul viewed the temple as the place where one could be aware of the presence of God. Jesus also called himself a temple for God to live in, and that if he were destroyed he would be rebuilt in three days (a reference to the resurrection of Jesus).

Jesus chased out of the temple religious people who were there for commercial profit. Jesus and the apostles used the phrase 'temple' as a metaphor for himself and his followers as 'dwelling places for God'. Paul told the Christians that they were the temple of God's spirit which dwelt in them. He frequently spoke of the purity of heart necessary for God to dwell in them, not merely rules and regulations about dress and rituals.

Christians had direct access in prayer to God, without having to go to a special building. Paul called on them to present their very selves as a sacrifice to God. The individual believer, indwelt by God's spirit is the temple. That is where God is to be encountered. And that is how it is today! May we allow Jesus Christ to provide our dwelling place in God.

St Mary's Primary School News January 2016

We hope you had a lovely Christmas and peaceful New Year. It was lovely to see all the children back after the festive break.

Before the holidays the children brought an orange into school and they made Christingles for our Christingle Service which Jonathan very kindly conducted. It was a lovely service and the school hall looked beautiful with all the Christingles alight. Thank you Jonathan.

We have some exciting trips coming up – Year 3 are going to Amersham Field Centre as part of their Science topic on Rocks. This visit will enhance and consolidate the children's learning, focusing on comparing and grouping rocks according to their properties and how fossils are formed as well as developing the children's scientific enquiry skills. The field centre's 30 hectare site provides a mosaic of woodland, grassland and pond habitats for all ages to study.

Our Year 2s are off to Tring Tesco as part of their Science topic where the children will take part in Tesco's 'Farm to Fork' trail which teaches children about food groups, a balanced diet and how their food gets from where it is produced to their plate.

The Cross Country season is well under way and we have two cross country events this month. Let's hope the ground is not too boggy after all the rain!

The Children's Society

Thank you so much to all our faithful box holders. Gareth and I completed the count this week and are thrilled to tell you we have banked £830.36p. for the Children's Society. 3 more families have agreed to have a box this year, so next December we will have 41 boxes to open and count! I still have 3 boxes awaiting a new home, so please let us know if you could have one for your loose change. It all adds up for a very good cause - and keeps us out of mischief for several weeks at the turn of the year! Thank you.
